DASTARD CRIME OF U. S. SOLDIERS.

THE HERALD, in common with the good citizens of Brownsville, is horror stricken at the dastardly outrage committed against the city of Brownsville last night by a mob of negro soldiers from Fort Brown. That such a thing could have been possible would have seemed incredible had it been foretold even yesterday. True, it was known that hard feeling existed on the part of some of these soldiers against our people, because they had been denied the privileges of equality which it is said were accorded them in the state of Nebraska, and also because rather rough treatment had been accorded one or two of them who had been guilty of rudeness and insolence upon the streets. Some of our citizens, perhaps, looked for some trouble. But that a squad of eighteen or twenty soldiers could sally forth from the garrison, bent openly upon murder, and the fact remain unobserved at the post, and no effort made to check them, is a strange indeed. That the guard at Fort Brown last night must have been implicated in this murderous attack upon our people seem undoubtedly true. THE HERALD knows, of course, that the officers at Fort Brown would have done all in their power to prevent such an outrage as that of last night. It is to disorderly conduct of some of the soldiers, complaint of which had already been made to the commanding officer, that greater precautions were not taken to prevent even the remotest chance of such an outbreak as that of last night. The blame for this terrible occurrence, however, lies justly at Washington, with the authorities who use such senseless policy as to transfer negro soldiers from a northern state, where the white people grant them social equality, to a southern state where such a thing would be literally impossible.

But it is too late now to seek to place the blame. The thing is done. Our homes have been outraged, one citizen murdered and another maimed for life by weapons in the hands of the soldiers who are supposed to be protectors of the American people. The condition which faces us now is what we have to consider. It is exceedingly doubtful, after such a tragedy, whether these soldiers can remain in our midst without further trouble of an even more serious nature occurring. Even with the strictest precautions, the authorities at Fort Brown as well as in the city will doubtless be unable to prevent it. That such is the case, our people realize and the action of the mass meeting this morning was in effect to secure the speedy removal of the negro soldiers from here.

It is but fair to say that Major Penrose, commanding officer at Fort Brown, when visited by the citizens' committee today, seemed to feel very deeply on the subject, and THE HERALD believes that he and his subordinate officers will do all in their power to ferret out the guilty parties and turn them over to justice.

THINGS have come to a fine pass, when citizens of the United States must be terrorized and outraged, and innocent men shot down on the streets, by United States soldiers—those supposed to be our protectors become our enemies!

THIS is what our government sends us—Krag-Jorgensen bullets, instead of protection!

The Future Bath.

"The bath of the next century," says T. Baron Russell in book "A Hundred Years Hence," "will have the body speedily with oxygenated water delivered with a force that will render rubbing unnecessary, and beside it will stand the drying cupboard, lined with some quickly moving arrangements of soft brushes, and fed with a highly desiccated air, from which, almost in a moment, the bather will emerge, dried and with a skin gently stimulated, and perhaps electrified, to clothe himself quickly and pass down the lift to his breakfast, which he will eat to the accompaniment of a summary of the morning's news read out for the benefit of the family, or whispered into his ears by a talking machine."

What to Teach Your Daughter.—Teach her that one hundred cents make one dollar; teach her how to wear a simple calico dress and to wear it like a queen; teach her how to sew on buttons, darn stockings and mend gloves; teach her how to dress for health and comfort as well as for appearance; teach her how to arrange the parlor and the library; teach her to have a place for everything and to put everything in its place; teach her to say no and mean it and to say yes and stick to it; teach her to have nothing to do with intemperance and dissolute men; teach her to pay regard to the character of those she would associate with, and not to how much money they have.—Exchange.

The apples will not fall from the tree till you shake it.

JUVENILE SURPRISE PARTY.

Forty Children Enjoyed Delightful Evening at Cowan Home Previous to Midnight Attack On that House.

A delightful juvenile entertainment was enjoyed by about forty children last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis R. Cowan on Fourteenth street, the occasion being a surprise party which was given to their little daughter Miss Anita by her young friend Miss Nora Leahy. A large number of little folks gathered at the Cowan home early in the evening, and several hours were passed by Miss Anita and her little friends in playing games and having a good time generally. To complete the pleasure of the evening, delicious refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake and fruit, provided by Mrs. Leahy, were served to the party.

Those participating in this delightful event, besides the little ones of Mr. and Mrs. Cowan's family, were as follows: Misses Mary and Blanche Austin, Amy Wise, Ethel Neale, Frances Hopkins, Verna Sharp, Lily Houghton, Zola McClellan, Isabel and Florine Pierce, Nena and Dealva Smith, Celia Oltman, Katie Egly and Nora Leahy, Masters Hugh Lindsey Hubert Elkins, Bernie, Alex and Lulu Kowalski, Johnny Hopkin, Wesley Bailey, Willie and George Sharpe.

It was about half past eleven when the youthful participants dispersed, carrying away with them happy recollections of a most delightful evening.

This was just half an hour previous to the dastardly assault upon the Cowan home by the mob of negro soldiers which occurred at midnight. What heartfelt thanks are due to Providence that these little ones were safely gathered in their homes before this attack was made. It is not likely that all could have escaped in the shower of bullets which pierced the walls of the house whose hospitality they enjoyed, had the attack been made while the children's party was in progress.
